Module Aims

This module aims to provide a conceptual framework for games students. It will provide the core understanding of why people play and how play can manifest itself in formalised games. It will allow students to explore concepts of play through practical activities including playing traditional (non-digital) games and the developing new game ideas.

Outline Syllabus

- Play theory
- Concepts of Fun
- Psychology of play
- Forms of play
- Ideas of gameplay
- Traditional games

Learning Outcomes
Outcome Number	Description
01	Identify key concepts and characteristics of play
02	Write a pitch and outline for a potential game
03	Produce an original non-digital game concept
04	Provide high quality constructive criticism of games

Learning, Teaching and Assessment Strategy

The module will be delivered through a combination of lectures and seminars, with practical workshop sessions included. Knowledge gained will be explored in seminar discussions and practical exercises, backed up by directed reading.

Learning activities include:

- Playing traditional games
- Rapid prototyping workshops

Formative Assessments

- Initial verbal pitch from each pair of students
- Written game outline and description

Summative Assessments

- An original non-digital game with written instructions (70%)
- Individual reflective report describing the game play from observational testing (30%)

Supplementary assessment is to describe and critique an original non-digital game idea.
